

ARE WE GENERATIONALLY RELEVANT?

The students of the present generation are intellectual, well informed, always connected and have access to a wide range of downloadable information. They have grown up with technology as opposed to the older generation, which is usually reluctant to change. Situations like these start creating rift between a student and the teacher. It is therefore very important for a teacher to be generationally relevant, so as to bridge the gap and connect with the students.

but the rapid cultural change during the 21st century has increased this gap tremendously. So becoming generationally relevant becomes of paramount importance.

Team HRS, during the First Term, proved once again that they are far ahead in meeting the challenges of New Generation by way of application of Technology in classrooms, programs and activities- both in academic and cultural front! You will find a reflection of the same in our articles and pictures.

Well Done Team HRS!!!
Yes, we are very much generationally relevant.

Wishing you yet another challenging and eventful Term III!

Happy reading....

K. SREENIVASAN,
Vice-Principal.

"Age never limits sports

Practice is not success

Your appearance never supports

Rather interest is all that matters."

A blooming inspiration for the young buds. A humble Olympian who outshined the thorns of struggles to beautiful petals of wonders. At her young age, being a marathon runner was neither a dream nor a thought but it was an inculcation which showed into an achievement. Gene never had a role and difficulties were another incitement to succeed. Her life too was a marathon, an empty mind- set, the prime factor, deciding her strengths and weaknesses. Age bars were never barriers to sports, though it had an influence, the blessed showers of the terrains she had born was her backbone. HRS was a reminiscence to her first marathon and she was quite delighted to find that the High Rangeans were also into sports.

Cancer Aid Society

Cancer Aid Society organized a training and mass awareness campaign in the school in the month of June. The aim was to provide guidelines for preventing cancer and other non-communicable diseases. As part of the same Cancer Awareness cum sponsor forms were given to students of class L.K.G. to class XII. We feel very proud to announce that an amount of Rupees One lakh, twenty thousand, four hundred and ninety two was collected by the students.

“Miracles do happen; you just need to believe in your ability to be a part of the miracle. What lies ahead is worth the effort!!”

“If you want something enough, the entire universe conspires to help you achieve it.” God helps those who help themselves. All these are popular adages that we love to classify as fantasy myths, but let me break it to you today: They are all One Hundred Percent true. Over the past year I have learnt that miracles do happen; you just need to believe in your ability to be a part of the miracle.

I would be lying if I said that it was easy (Science? Easy?) but saying that it was hard would just be as blatant a lie. And to say that everyone at school were very supportive would be a grave understatement. Every single person has gone out of their way to ensure that we get only the best. Everybody's worked like their life depended on it and I'm ever so grateful to everyone for that! To describe how I feel is a little complicated. The news came amidst lot of tension and it was quite overwhelming at first. It took a while to sink in; but when it did it was one of the most wonderful feelings I'd come across so far! I feel indebted to everyone who's prayed for me and been with me throughout the good and bad times. On the whole, I've realized that getting to the top requires a lot of perseverance and ambition. And to everyone who wants to go on top I'd just like to say that stick on, make the mistakes, fall, but get up each time, persevere in times of despair because what lies ahead is worth every bit of the effort!”
